The County Convention.

A Good Ticket!

The Democratic County Convention, to nominate a County Ticket, assembled in the Court-house, on Monday last. Every district was fully represented. But the Convention was not only full—it was one of the most intelligent bodies of the kind, of any party, that has convened in this place for many a year. A strong feeling for harmony prevailed throughout, and nothing whatever occurred to mar the deliberations in the least. The Opposition were loud in their boasts beforehand that the Presidential question would produce trouble, and based all their hopes upon such an occurrence. But they were most egregiously disappointed. That disturbing question was wisely avoided by the Convention, no allusion whatever having been made to it.

That the ticket nominated is an admirable one, all candid men admit, and it goes into the canvass with the prestige that it is not to be beaten.

The choice of the Convention for the Legislature fell upon HENRY J. MYERS, of Tyrone. Widely known, and a favorite wherever known, that he will make a successful run of it we do not permit ourselves to doubt. A gentleman of fine attainments and sturdy honest, he will represent the county with credit to himself and his constituents. The ballot-box will decide that HENRY is the man to send to Harrisburg.

SAMUEL WOLF, of Abbottstown, the nominee for Sheriff, is also well fitted for the post. A hard-working mechanic, an active business man, of the highest respectability, the people will rally to the polls for him in masses—and especially will such be the case when their eyes are fully opened, as they will be before the canvass is over, to the despicable means resorted to by unprincipled tricksters to defeat him. Falsehood and detraction will never injure a man like Samuel Wolf in a just and sound-thinking community.

For Prothotary, HENRY A. PICKING, of Strasburg, is the candidate. For this important office—one of the most important to be filled in the county the present year—Mr. Picking has peculiar qualifications. There is no man better fitted for it than he. An excellent scholar, prompt and correct in all his doings, always clearly comprehending duty and ready to perform it to the letter—and widely known for all these traits—the public will not fail to express a proper appreciation at the polls.

The next on the list is EDWARD MCINTIRE, of Liberty, for Register and Recorder. He, too, has superior qualifications, and will make a most acceptable officer. Not a word can be urged in his favor. An industrious scholar, and a correct business man, the people will see to it that his claims are not passed over.

For Clerk of the Court, JOHN EICHOLTZ, of Butler, is the nominee. A hard-working merchant, esteemed by all who know him, and well qualified, the voters of the county will speak well in his favor also. There is not a single meritorious citizen to be found than JOHN EICHOLTZ.

For Commissioner of the choice of the Convention in W. B. GARDNER, of Huntington. An intelligent farmer, of fine business capacities, and possessing the confidence of all who know him, he is sure to be awarded a seat on the Commissioners' board. That he is qualified, to the stamp of his ability, to represent the people and their interests, need not be questioned.

CHARLES W. CARRIGAN, and others: The speech, as all breasted a spirit of harmony, which was cordially responded to by the audience.

The signs are all encouraging. We have every assurance that the same feeling prevails throughout the State, and that the occupancy of those who wish to promote division in the Democratic ranks is about gone.

The Star has already commenced misrepresenting the Democratic candidates, and will doubtless continue to vilify them until the election. The unprincipled scribblers for that sheet cannot say a decent word of a political opponent. It is well that they have commenced their game so early. A year ago, they started that most outrageous falsehoods against certain of the Democratic candidates—Capt. DIBBLE in particular—which they were compelled to back down from after the election. This time they may be forced to do so before their mischievous intentions are accomplished.

In the Democratic Convention of Juniata county, on Monday last, Douglas and Breckinridge men united in passing unanimously the following among other resolutions:

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the recommendation of the State Central Committee, in their efforts to run, but one Electoral Ticket; and that in all their actions and proceedings they have been guided by the wise and patriotic purpose to maintain the union and integrity of the Democratic party.

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the action of the State Executive Committee at its recent meeting as it seems to us to meet with very general approval. There are doubtless now in carrying Pennsylvania's bid for the Presidency, and we earnestly trust that the Democratic will be safe.

The election in Kentucky has resulted in the election of General Lewis C. Clegg, of the Court of Appeals, over Simon M. Cameron, the regular candidate supported by the majority. Mr. Cameron was a supporter of Breckinridge. In reliance to the address issued from Washington by Miles Taylor & Co., against any union whatever with Breckinridge Democrats, the Douglas Democrats put in the field as their candidate Col. Bolling. It appears that most of the Douglass dropped Bolling and voted directly for Cameron, their candidate having but few votes.

POET'S CORNER.

THE ELDER'S DAUGHTER.

Cast her forth in her shame;
She is no daughter of mine;
We have an honest name,
All of our honest and fine,
And she has brought us to shame.

What are you whispering there,
Parleying with sin at the door?

There is no blessing for her;

She is dead to me forevermore;

Dead I would to God that she were.

Dead and the grace over her head!

There is no shame in dying;

They were wholesome tears we shed;

Where art her little sisters are lying;

And the love of them is not dead.

I did not curse her, did I?

I meant not that, O Lord!

We are cursed enough already;

Let her go with never a word;

I have blessed her often already.

You are the mother that bore her,

Do not blame you for weeping;

They had all gone before her;

And she had our hearts a-keeping;

And O the love that we bore her!

I thought that she was like you;

I thought the light in her face,

And the winsome look of grace;

But she was never like you.

Is the night dark and wild?

Dark is the way of sin—

The way of an erring child,

Dark without end within—

And tell me not she was beguiled.

What should beguile her, truly?

Did we not bless them both?

There was gold between them duty,

And we blessed their plighted troth;

Though I never liked him truly.

Let us read a word from the Book;

I think that my eyes grow dim—

I used to sit in the nook

There by the side of him;

And hand me the holy Book.

I wot not what ill me to-night;

I cannot lay hold on a text.

O Jesus! guide me right,

For my soul is sore perplexed,

And the Book seems dark as the night.

And the night is stormy and dark;

And dark is the way of sin,

And the stream will be swollen to and dark;

How the water pours in the Lynn!

It's an ugly ford in the dark.

What did you say? To-night

Midst sin sleep in her little bed?

Her bed so pure and white!

How often I've thought and said

They were both so pure and white.

But that was a lie—for she

Was a whitest scapulie;

Yet oh! she was white to me,

And we buried my heart in her;

And it's dead wherever she be.

Nay, she never could lay her head

Again in the little white room

Where all her little sisters were laid;

She would seem still in the gloom,

All chaste and pure—but dead.

We will go all together,

She, and you, and I;

There's the black peat-hag 'mong the

Where we could all of us lie, 'neath

And bury our shame together.

Any foul soul will do

For a grave to us now in our shame;

She may be with me and you,

But she shall not sleep with them,

And the dust of my fathers too.

Is it sin, you say, I have spoken?

I know not; my head feels strange;

And something in me is broken;

Lord, is it the coming change?

Forgive the word I have spoken.

I scarce know what I have said;

Was I hard on her for her fail?

That was wrong; but the rest were dead;

And I loved her more than them all—

For she had all the love of the dead.

One by one as they died,

The love that was owing to them

Centred on her at my side;

And then she brought us to shame,

And broke the crown of my pride.

Lord, pardon mine erring child!

Do we not all of us err?

Dark was my heart and wild;

Oh, might I but look on her

Once more my lost loved child!

For I thought not long ago,

That I was in Abraham's bosom,

And she lifted a face of woe,

Like some depth, below blossom,

Do not say, when I am gone,

That she brought my gray hairs to the grave;

Women do that; but let her alone;

She'll have sorrow enough to brave;

That would turn her heart to stone.

Is that her hand in mine?

Now, give me thine, sweet wife;

I thank thee, Lord, for this grace of thine,

And light, and peace, and life;

And she is thine and mine.

Bladensburg Duelling Grounds.

BLADENSBURG, June 18, 1860.

Pistols and coffee for two. As I am alone on the classic ground I can take care that the pistols do not harm, and the coffee is handed me now. The place is noted for its politeness and refined manners. It is about a mile from the city, fresh and hand-some in its beauty, in full livery of trees, shrubs, and flowers. It is a fine place for a duel.

A gentleman of the Irish persuasion, happening to pass that way, had his attention arrested by the noise in the building, and at once resolved “to find out what division he was on foot.” So it happened that at the time he had made his entry, the man of “raps” was discussing on the delightful sensations experienced by the “medium” in the “trance state,” the “medium” imagining himself in heaven; and said he himself visited heaven while in the “trance state.”

Our Irish friend could restrain his indignation no longer, and opened upon the reporter’s “curiosity” in the following manner:

“A-and-a-quarter-Miles-to-Salley, you say?”

“Yes,” answered Mr. Soley, very courteous, thinking, no doubt, that he had found an affinity in Michael.

“And ye wan’t dreamin’?”

“No, I wan’t dreamin’.”

“Well, Misther Soley, you were a great fool foravin’ for that bright sky above,

Giving the “moving spirit” a look of “supreme contempt!” Michael took his leave, and the “circle” soon after dissolved—the lecturer remarking that the spirits wouldn’t move him after this uncalled fear interruption.

Cat Hold of a Wren. Cutterman—Mr. Charles Henninger, of this place, while in New York on the Fourth with his wife to see the great exhibition of patriotic promises for the occasion, came near being victimized by Pick Pockets. While in a dense crowd in Park Place, accompanied by his wife, to see the fireworks, he suddenly felt a dip into his breeches pocket, (containing a wallet with $300,) and turning round grabbed the intruder by the throat and held him to the ground.

In 1822, Midshipman Locke was killed here in a duel here with Commodore Barron. At the first fire both fell forward and both lay with their heads within ten feet of each other, and as each supposed himself mortally wounded, each fully and freely forgave the other, still lying on the ground. Doctor expired in a few days, but Barron eventually recovered.

In 1821, two strangers, named Lega and Segu, appeared here, fought, and Segu was instantly killed. The neighbors only learned this much of their names from the marks on their gloves left on the ground. Lega was not hurt.

The County Convention.

A Good Ticket!

The Democratic County Convention, to nominate a County Ticket, assembled in the Courthouse on Monday last. Every district was fully represented. But the Convention was not only full—it was one of the most intelligent bodies of the kind, of any party, that has convened in this place for many a year. A strong feeling for harmony prevailed throughout, and nothing whatever occurred to mar the deliberations in the least. The Opposition were loud in their boasts beforehand that the Presidential question would produce trouble, and base all their hopes upon such an occurrence. But they were most egregiously disappointed. That disturbing question was wisely avoided by the Convention, no allusion whatever having been made to it.

That the ticket nominated is an admirable one, all candid men admit, and it goes into the canvass with the prestige that it is not to be beaten.

The choice of the Convention for the Legislature fell upon Henry J. Myers, of Tyrone. Widely known, and a favorite wherever known, that he will make a successful run if we do not permit ourself to doubt. A gentleman of fine attainments and sternly honest, he will represent the county with credit to himself and his constituents. The ballot-box will decide that Henry is the man to send to Harrisburg.

Samuel Wolf, of Abbottstown, the nominee for Sheriff, is also well fitted for the post. A hard-working mechanic, an active business man, of the highest respectability, the people will rally to the polls for him in mass—and especially will such be the case when their eyes are fully opened, as they will be before the canvas is over, to the despicable means resorted to by unprincipled tricksters to defeat him. Falsehood and detraction will never injure a man like Samuel Wolf in a just and sound-thinking community.

For Prothoontary, Henry A. Pickering, of Straban, is the candidate. For this important office—one of the most important to be filled in the county the present year—Mr. Pickering has peculiar qualifications. There is no man better fitted for it than he. An excellent clerk, prompt and correct in all his doings, always clearly comprehending duty and ready to perform it to the letter—and widely known for all these traits—the public will not fail to express a proper appreciation at the polls.

The next on the list is Edward McFetridge, of Liberty, for Register and Recorder. He, too, has superior qualifications, and will make a most acceptable officer. Not a word can be said against him, whilst everything can be urged in his favor. An industrious man, and a correct business man, the people will see to it that his claims are not passed over.

For Clerk of the Courts, John Etcholz, of Butler, is the nominee. A hard-working mechanician, esteemed by all who know him, and well qualified, the voters of the county will speak out in his favor also. There is not a more meritorious citizen to be found than John Etcholz.

For Commissioner the choice of the Convention is W. B. Gardner, of Huntington. An intelligent farmer, of fine business capacities, and possessing the confidence of all who know him, he is sure to be awarded a seat in the Commissioners' board. That he will assist, to the utmost of his ability, to carry out the able and careful management of the affairs of the county, need not be questioned.

James Mearns, of Reading, and Isaac Trout, of Hamilton, the candidates for Directors of the Poor, are also among our best and most respectable farmers, in whose hands the tax-payers will very properly place their interest to be safe. We cannot too highly recommend them to public favor and support.

For Auditor, Henry Dyer, of Littlestown, the candidate for Auditor, we can truly say that the choice could not have fallen upon a better nominee. A good accountant, and of unimpeachable integrity, he will perform the duty to be entrusted to his hands with correctness and fidelity.

Such is the ticket presented to the voters of the county by the Democratic Convention. From top to bottom, it is made up of most exceptional gentlemen, against whose fitness or standing not one word can with truth be uttered. Democrats of Adams, you may well be proud of this ticket. Rally to its support.

In the contest for these nominations other gentlemen were of course disappointed. It could not be otherwise, because all could not be chosen. But, to use the language of a contemporary, "we trust they will now turn in and work for the election of their successful competitors as hard as they would have expected them to have done for their election had they been the nominees." The Opposition leaders will leave no stone unturned to defeat the Democratic ticket. Let all Democrats work with equal ardor for its success. The candidates are worthy, and our cause is just.

The State Committee's Meeting at Crosson.

In the Patriot and Union we find such an admirable summary of the resolution adopted by the Democratic State Executive Committee at Crosson, on the 9th inst., that we make use of such portions of it as may prove of interest.

The resolution adopted by the Committee, that journals propose that the Electoral ticket formed by the Reading Convention shall be voted for by Democrats, and all those with Democratic sympathies opposed to the election of the Republican candidates; that for the purpose of ascertaining which of the candidates for President is the preference of a majority of the voters of the State, one of the electors shall be dropped from the ticket, and in its place the name of Douglas or Breckinridge substituted, according to the wish of the voter, and the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes shall, in the event of the success of the ticket, receive the electoral vote of the State. If Mr. Douglas has more votes than Mr. Breckinridge, then he is to get the electoral vote; and if, on the other hand, the majority turns out to be for Mr. Breckinridge, then the vote of the State is to be cast for him. This arrangement involves the certain loss of one Elector dropped for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the majority, but this is a small matter if it secures the election of the remaining twenty-six, and the consequent defeat of Lincoln.

The resolution further provides, that in case the Electoral vote of the State would not elect the choice of the majority, and would elect some other Democratic President, and thereby defeat Lincoln, the Electoral vote shall be cast for such candidate. This portion of the resolution, we presume, was adopted in anticipation of a contingency like this. Suppose that the Democratic Electors should be chosen, and a majority of voters decline in favor of Breckinridge—suppose, at the same time, that it should appear that Douglas could be chosen President by the help of Pennsylvania, and Breckinridge could not; in that event the Electors would be obliged to vote for Mr. Douglas rather than throw away the vote of the State upon Mr. Breckinridge, who could not be elected by it. This is a hypothetical case illustrative of the possible result of the second branch of the resolution. Of course it might so happen that it would work to the advantage of Mr. Breckinridge, and it is a poor rule that won't work both ways.

We were satisfied with the original proposition of the Committee, and sincerely believe that it met with the approval of a large majority of the party; but at the same time we are ready to accept any modification likely to prove more acceptable. This feeling was held in common with the great body of the Committee, and upon assembling at Crosson there was a general disposition to conciliate and harmonize manifested on both sides.

The result is found in the proceedings; we wish to note the fact that the division on the adoption of the resolution was not a division between the friends of Douglas and Breckinridge, and that many decided Douglas men voted affirmatively, and many decided Breckinridge men negatively. The absence of anything like a Presidential test in this vote was one of the most auspicious signs of union, as was also the acquiescence of the minority.

As far as we have been able to ascertain, the public feeling, the compromise is hailed with enthusiasm, as opening a bright prospect for the defeat of the Republican candidates.

On returning from Crosson a number of members of the Committee stayed over night at Altoona, where, as soon as the news spread, of the favorable result at Crosson, a spontaneous meeting assembled, which was addressed by Wm. H. Welsh, John W. Maynard, Charles W. Clegg, and others. The speakers all breathed a spirit of harmony, which was cordially responded to by the audience. The signs are all encouraging. We have every assurance that the same feelings prevail throughout the State, and that the occupation of those who wish to promote division in the Democratic ranks is about gone.

Star has already commenced misrepresenting the Democratic candidates, and will doubtless continue to vilify them until the election. The unprincipled scribblers for that sheet cannot say a decent word of a political opponent. It is well that they have commenced their game so early. A year ago, they started the most outrageously false reports against certain of the Democratic candidates—Capt. Dyer in particular—which they were compelled to back down from after the election. This time they may be forced to do so before their mischievous intentions are accomplished.

Star in the Democratic Convention of Juniata county, on Monday last, Douglas and Breckinridge men united in passing, unanimously, the following among other resolutions:

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the recommendation of the State Central Committee in their efforts to run but one Electoral Ticket; and that in all their actions and proceedings they have been actuated by the wise and patriotic purpose to maintain the union and integrity of the Democratic party.

Star the Greensburg Democrat, a Douglas paper, says:

The action of the State Executive Committee at its recent meeting at Crosson seems to meet with very general approval. There need no difficulty now in carrying Pennsylvania both in October and in November, and we trust every Democrat will go to work to secure the success of the party.

The Houston (Texas) Telegraph, says that Hon. W. R. W. Cobb, of Alabama, lately made a speech in which he took strong ground for Breckinridge and Lane, vindicated his position, and exhorting his friends to harmonize.

Hon. H. S. Foote, of Miss., addressed the friends of Judge Douglas at Harrisburg last Wednesday evening.

It is announced that Hon. Henry A. Wise, of Virginia, will, previous to the Presidential election, address the people of Pennsylvania on the side of Breckinridge and Lane.

At a recent flag-raising in Newport, N. H., the crowd repaired to a stand erected for the purpose, and were addressed by the Hon. Edmund Burke, for the Breckinridge Democracy; Dr. John Hopkins, of Sunapee, for the Douglas Democracy, and by Paul S. Adams, Esq., of Newport, for the Republicans.

Cassius M. Clay, the Abolitionist, is busy enlisting the State of Indiana for the Republicans.

The Saturday Review speaks of a story that the ladies of the congregation of a fashionable preacher, in London, are subscribing a fund to procure him a divorce.

New York has voted alternately for the Democratic and Opposition candidates for the Presidency for the past twenty years, viz.—for Van Buren in 1836, General Harrison in 1840, Polk in 1844, Taylor in 1848, Pierce in 1852, Franklin in 1856.

Mr. Elizabeth Litzenberger died at the Stark county (Ohio) infirmary on the 1st inst., aged 102 years, 10 months and 20 days. It is stated that when a girl she was a great favorite of General Washington, for whom she cooked during his visit to Little York, Pa., which so pleased him that he offered her a permanent situation in his family, which she declined.

The foreign diplomatic corps in Mexico are reported to have originated a proposal to declare Miramont "Emperor of Mexico."

Ex-Gov. Hunt, of New York, is out strongly for Bell and Everett, and will stump the State. Thus day by day are leading men in the Opposition party falling into the Bell and Everett line.

Ellis, den, far G. W. of North Carolina, 51 2/3 majority and two counties to be held from him.

Col. Thomas H. Seymour, of Connecticut, minister to Russia, and last year the candidate of the Connecticut Democracy for Governor, is for Breckinridge and Lane.

A meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee of California was held at San Francisco on the 20th and 21st. A long discussion ensued on nominating only one electoral ticket, which resulted in a split: twenty-six for Bell and Everett and ten for Douglas. Both wings have called nominating conventions, and both published addresses to the Democrats. A Bell and Everett convention is also to be held in San Francisco on the 23d.

The Independent of Philadelphia, in its article on the election of the State Central Committee, says:

"We are satisfied with the original proposition of the Committee, and sincerely believe that it met with the approval of a large majority of the party; but at the same time we are ready to accept any modification likely to prove more acceptable. This feeling was held in common with the great body of the Committee, and upon assembling at Crosson there was a general disposition to conciliate and harmonize manifested on both sides.

The result is found in the proceedings; we wish to note the fact that the division on the adoption of the resolution was not a division between the friends of Douglas and Breckinridge, and that many decided Douglas men voted affirmatively, and many decided Breckinridge men negatively. The absence of anything like a Presidential test in this vote was one of the most auspicious signs of union, as was also the acquiescence of the minority.

As far as we have been able to ascertain, the public feeling, the compromise is hailed with enthusiasm, as opening a bright prospect for the defeat of the Republican candidates.

On returning from Crosson a number of members of the Committee stayed over night at Altoona, where, as soon as the news spread, of the favorable result at Crosson, a spontaneous meeting assembled, which was addressed by Wm. H. Welsh, John W. Maynard, Charles W. Clegg, and others. The speakers all breathed a spirit of harmony, which was cordially responded to by the audience. The signs are all encouraging. We have every assurance that the same feelings prevail throughout the State, and that the occupation of those who wish to promote division in the Democratic ranks is about gone.

Star The Patriot and Union has held the Breckinridge flag. It says: "We shall support Mr. Breckinridge under the resolution adopted by the State Committee at Crosson. If the majority of voters prefer him for the Presidency, we will, in the event of the success of the ticket, receive the vote of the State—but if Mr. Douglas is the popular favorite, then he is entitled to that vote. We are willing to submit to the decision of the majority, and shall maintain the cause of the Union."

The Right Spirit, of Tennessee, in its recent meeting, said that he preferred Breckinridge to all other candidates, yet in the contingency that the vote of Tennessee would enable Mr. Douglas to defeat Lincoln, he advised the Democratic electors to vote for Judge Douglas.

The County Convention.

A Good Ticket!

The Democratic County Convention, to nominate a County Ticket, assembled in the Court-house, on Monday last. Every district was fully represented. But the Convention was not only full—it was one of the most intelligent bodies of the kind, of any party, that has convened in this place for many a year. A strong feeling for harmony prevailed throughout, and nothing whatever occurred to mar the deliberations in the least. The Opposition were loud in their boasts before-hand that the Presidential question would produce trouble, and based all their hopes upon such an occurrence. But they were most egregiously disappointed. That disturbing question was wisely avoided by the Convention, no allusion whatever having been made to it.

That the ticket nominated is an admirable one, all candid men admit, and it goes into the canvass with the prestige that it is not to be beaten.

The choice of the Convention for the Legislature fell upon HENRY J. MYERS, of Tyrone. Widely known, and a favorite wherever known, that he will make a successful run of it, we do not permit ourself to doubt. A gentleman of fine attainments and steady honest, he will represent the county with credit to himself and his constituents. The ballot-box will decide that HENRY is the man to lead to Harrisburg.

SAMUEL WOLF, of Abbottstown, the nominee for Sheriff, is also well fitted for the post. A hard-working mechanic, an active business man, of the highest respectability, the people will rally to the polls for him in mass—and especially will such be the case when their eyes are fully opened, as they will be before the canvass is over, to the despicable means resorted to by unprincipled tricksters to defeat him. Falsehood and detraction will never injure a man like Samuel Wolf in a just and sound-thinking community.

For Prothonotary, HENRY A. PICKING, of Strahan, is the candidate. For this important office—one of the most important to be filled in the county the present year—Mr. Picking has peculiar qualifications. There is no man better fitted for it than he. An excellent clerk, prompt and correct in all his doings, always clearly comprehending duty and ready to perform it to the letter—and widely known for all these traits—the public will not fail to express a proper appreciation at the polls.

The next on the list is EDWARD MCINTIRE, of Liberty, for Register and Recorder. He, too, has superior qualifications, and will make a most unexceptionable officer. Not a word can be said against him, whilst everything can be urged in his favor. An industrious farmer, and a correct business man, the people will see to it that his claims are not passed over.

For Clerk of the Courts, JOHN EICHOLTZ, of Butler, is the nominee. A hard-working mechanic, esteemed by all who know him, and well qualified, the voters of the county will speak out in his favor also. There is not a more meritorious citizen to be found than John Eicholtz.

For Commissioner the choice of the Convention is W. B. GARDNER, of Huntingdon. An intelligent farmer, of fine business capacities, and possessing the confidence of all who know him, he is sure to be awarded a seat in the Commissioners' board. That he will assist, to the utmost of his ability, to cover the glib and careful management of the affairs of the county, need not be questioned.

James Mizrahi, of Huntingdon, and Isaac Proctor, of Hamiltonian, the candidates for Directors of the Poor, are also among our best and most respectable farmers, in whose hands the tax-payers will very properly deposit their interests to be safe. We cannot highly recommend them to public favor and support.

On HENRY DYSERT, of Littlestown, the candidate for Auditor, we can truly say that the scales could not have fallen upon a better balance. A good accountant, and of unclouded integrity, he will perform the duties to be entrusted to his hands with correctness and fidelity.

Such is the ticket presented to the voters of the county by the Democratic Convention. From top to bottom, it is made up of unexceptionable gentlemen, against whose fitness or standing not one word can with truth be uttered. Democrats of Adams, you may well be proud of this ticket. Itally to its support!

In the contest for these nominations, other gentlemen were of course disappointed. It could not be otherwise, because all could not be chosen. But, to use the language of a contemporary, "we trust they will now turn in and work for the election of their successful competitor, as hard as they would have expected them to have done for their election had they been the nominees." The Opposition leaders will leave no stone unturned to defeat the Democratic ticket. Let all Democrats work with equal ardor for its success. The candidates are worthy, and our cause is just.

The State Committee's Meeting at Cres- son.

In the Patriot & Union we find such an admirable exposition of the resolution adopted by the Democratic State Executive Committee, at Creson, on the 9th inst., that we make use of such portions of it as may prove of interest.

The resolution adopted by the Committee, says that journal, proposes that the Electoral ticket formed by the Reading Convention shall be voted for by Democrats, and all those with Democratic sympathies oppose to the election of the Republican candidates; that for the purpose of ascertaining which of the candidates for President is the preference of a majority of the voters of the State, one of the electors shall be dropped from the ticket, and in its place the name of Douglas or Breckinridge substituted, according to the wish of the voter, and the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes shall, in the event of the success of the ticket, receive the Electoral vote of the State. If Mr. Douglas has more votes than Mr. Breckinridge, then he is to get the Electoral vote; and if, on the other hand, the majority turns out to be for Mr. Breckinridge, then the vote of the State is to be cast for him. This arrangement involves the certain loss of one Elector dropped for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the majority, but this is a small matter if it secures the election of the remaining twenty-six, and the consequent defeat of Lincoln.

The resolution further provides, that in case the Electoral vote of the State would not elect the choice of the majority, and would elect some other Democrat President, and thereby defeat Lincoln, the Electoral vote shall be cast for such candidate. This portion of the resolution, we presume, was adopted in anticipation of a contingency like this: Suppose that the Democratic Electors should be chosen, and a majority of voters declare in favor of Breckinridge—suppose, at the same time, that it should appear that Douglas could be chosen President by the help of Pennsylvania, and Breckinridge could not; that in that event the Electors would be obliged to vote for Mr. Douglas rather than throw away the vote of the State upon Mr. Breckinridge, who could not be elected by it. This is a hypothetical case illustrative of the possible result of the second branch of the resolution. Of course it might so happen that it would work to the advantage of Mr. Breckinridge, and it is a poor rule that won't work both ways.

We were satisfied with the original proposition of the Committee, and sincerely believe that it met with the approval of a large majority of the party; but at the same time we are ready to accept any modification likely to prove more acceptable. This feeling was held in common with the great body of the Committee, and upon assembling at Creson, it was a general disposition to conciliate and harmonize manifested on both sides.

The result is found in the proceedings; we wish to note the fact that the division of the resolution was not a division between the friends of Douglas and Breckinridge, and that many decided Douglas men voted affirmatively, and many decided Breckinridge men negatively. The absence of anything like a Presidential test in this vote was one of the most auspicious signs of union, as was also the acquiescence of the minority of the Committee in the will of the majority.

As far as we have been able to ascertain public feeling, the compromise is hailed with enthusiasm, as opening a bright prospect for the defeat of the Republican candidates.

On returning from Creson a number of members of the Committee stayed over night at Altoona, where, as soon as the news spread, the favorable result at Creson, a spontaneous meeting assembled, which was addressed by Wm. H. Welsh, John W. Maynard, Charles W. Carrigan, and others. The speech all breathed a spirit of harmony, which was cordially responded to by the audience.

The Star has already commenced misrepresenting the Democratic candidates, and will doubtless continue to vilify them until the election. The unprincipled scribblers for sheet cannot say a decent word of a political opponent. It is well that they have commenced their game so early. A year ago, they started the most outrageously false reports against certain of the Democratic candidates—Capt. Dixie in particular—which were compelled to back down from after the election. This time they may be forced to do so before their mischievous intentions are accomplished.

In the Democratic Convention of Juniata county, on Monday last, Douglas and Breckinridge men united in passing, unanimously, the following among other resolutions:

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the recommendation of the State Central Committee, in their efforts to run, but one Electoral Ticket; and that in all their actions and proceedings they have been actuated by the wise and patriotic purpose to maintain the union and integrity of the Democratic party.

Resolved, That the Right Spirit, of Philadelphia, they have made full Congressional nominations. Henry M. Fuller, Judge King, and other able men have been nominated for Congress, and a full Legislative ticket will also be placed in the field by the same party. Their leaders, such men as Judge King, Hon. Henry M. Fuller and Hon. Jacob Brown, are among the first men in the State. H. Bueler Swope, in Central Pennsylvania, the President of the People's Party State Committee 1858, is now firm in support of Bell and Everett, and followed by the conservative Opposition masses of that section, openly refuse to support the Republican candidates. The Constitutional Union State Central Committee meets in Harrisburg, on the 22d instant, when they will most probably determine upon their course in this State and national elections.

Resolved, Attention is being called to a published speech of Col. Smart, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Maine, in which he charges that Hannibal Hamlin received seven thousand dollars as a lobay for getting a bill through Congress; he being at the same time a member of that Congress. If this be true he cannot be sustained as the candidate of any party.

It is possible? The reports of western politics include the announcement that Mr. Lincoln's brother-in-law is stamping the State of Illinois for Douglas. Does this relative know "honest old Abe" too well? or has the "irrepressible conflict" come home to root?

The heirs of Dr. Burdell (of Cunningham) are at law among themselves in New York.

A Douglas and Bell fusion electoral paper, says:

The action of the State Executive Committee at its recent meeting at Creson seems to meet with very general approval. There need no doubt now in carrying Pennsylvania both in October and in November, and we trust every Democrat will go to work to secure the success of the party.

The Star of the Foreign Legion, on its last meeting, has placed foreign interests in whose favor the tax-payers will very properly determine their interests to be safe. We cannot highly recommend them to public favor and support.

On HENRY DYSERT, of Littlestown, the candidate for Auditor, we can truly say that the scales could not have fallen upon a better balance. A good accountant, and of unclouded integrity, he will perform the duties

Lady Franklin arrived at New York, in the Adriatic, on Saturday morning week.

We learn from Washington that Secretary Cass has returned to his post of duty in good health, the newspapers to the contrary notwithstanding.

John A. Washington, Esq., the former proprietor of Mount Vernon, has formally transferred the house and ground to the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association. Mr. Washington will reside on his farm, Waverly, in Wayne county. He still is the proprietor of a large portion of the Mount Vernon estate.

A large number of the merchants of Baltimore favor the election of the next Mayor without regard to politics. A candidate independent of the Know Nothings will doubtless be elected.

The Houston (Texas) Telegraph, says that Gen. Houston will doubtless withdraw from the Presidential race after the August election. It thinks that most of his supporters will go for Breckinridge, as several of the most influential papers in his favor have come out for him.

We learn that Hon. W. R. Cobb, of Alabama, lately made a speech, in which he took strong ground for Breckinridge and Lane, vindicated his position, and exhorted his friends to harmonize.

Hon. H. S. Foote, of Miss., addressed the friends of Judge Douglas at Harrisburg last Wednesday evening.

It is announced that Hon. Henry A. Wise, of Virginia, will, previous to the Presidential election, address the people of Pennsylvania on the side of Breckinridge and Lane.

At a recent flag-raising in Newport, N. H., the crowd repaired to a stand erected for the purpose, and were addressed by the Hon. Edmund Burke for the Breckinridge Democrats; Dr. John Hopkins, of Sunapee, for the Douglas Democracy, and by Paul S. Adams, Esq., of Newport, for the Republicans.

The Saturday Review speaks of a story that the ladies of the congregation of a fashionable preacher, in London, are subscribing a fund to procure him a divorce.

A long discussion ensued on nominating only one electoral ticket, which resulted in a split; twenty-six being for Breckinridge and ten for Douglas. Both wings have called nominating conventions, and both published addresses to the Democrats.

A Bell and Everett convention is also held.

In New York a property qualification of $250 gives negroes the right of suffrage. Of course it is only the aristocratic darkey who can justify Democratic voters at the polls and put on airs, and it follows, as a natural consequence, that all of them are for "Massa Lincoln and Hamlin."

It is a unusually active part in politics this summer, organizing Lincoln clubs, contributing their means, and erecting poles for the success of the irrepressible conflict party.

A German, named John Weyweler, employed at the tannery of Mr. Kline, of Mount Joy, Lancaster county, received intelligence a few days since, from the Faderland, that a relative of his recently died and left him heir to the sum of forty thousand dollars.

The Harrisburg Patriot & Union has noticed the Breckinridge flag. It says: "We shall support Mr. Breckinridge under the resolution adopted by the State Committee at Creson. If the majority of voters prefer him for the Presidency, he will, in the event of the success of the ticket, receive the vote of the State—but if Mr. Douglas is the popular favorite, then he is entitled to that vote."

"La, mother, it was so greasy that it slipped my mind."

The York Gazette has the following article on this subject, to which we direct the special attention of the editor of the Sentinel:

Bell and Everett in Pennsylvania.—The adherents of these candidates in this State were numerous at the time of their nomination and have constantly increased since that time, until they now compose a large and formidable portion of the Opposition. At first the Republicans by abuse and ridicule attempted to compel them to renounce their nationality and to join in the support of the sectional candidates.

Having failed in this, they have resorted to the use of every means of influence to convert them to the support of the Union, and to make them feel the weight of their opposition.

Let the Democracy of Pennsylvania be assured that the great Democratic party is this day the strongest in the State, whether old or young, to do all in its power to head off the unfortunate breach now existing in our ranks, and effect a reunion of our party, not only for the sake of our beloved State, but for the sake of our beloved country.

Surely, the corrupt legislation of our late General Assembly ought to be cause sufficient to induce us to make such a sacrifice.

It is not incompatible with our ancient political principles, to hurl such a venal legislature from power and elect honest and competent men in their stead. But this great nation, by its long and painful experience, has been compelled to do this.

Let these Electors be assured that they will be fully supported in their efforts to effect a reconciliation.

Let them be assured that they will be fully supported in their efforts to effect a reconciliation.

Democratic County Convention.

The Delegates chosen by the Democrats of the several districts of Adams county, convened in the Court-house, in Gettysburg, on Monday last, to nominate a County Ticket and transact such other business as might be deemed necessary. Every district was fully represented. The Convention organized at 10 o'clock by the choice of the following officers:

The election in Kentucky has resulted in the choice of General Leslie Combs, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, over Clinton McClarty, the regular Democratic candidate, by a large majority. Mr. McClarty was a supporter of Breckinridge. In obedience to the decree issued from Washington by Miles Taylor & Co., against any union whatever with Breckinridge Democrats, the Douglas Democrats in the field as their candidate Col. Bolling. It appears that most of the Douglas men dropped Bolling and voted directly for Combs, their candidate having but few votes. —Patriot & Union.

They are gone in thy innocence, beauty and bloom.

Leaving earth and its sorrows, for heavenly home.

Their spirit hath soared on the wings of a dove, To thy Savior who called—to thy country above, Another sweet voice joins the beautiful strain.

Released from a world of sorrows and pain, With Angels rejoicing thine it eve more sing In the home of the blessed, to the Heavenly King.

We miss thy sweet presence so dear to our hearts,

In thinking of thee, the tear refresh starts, Yet thou're blessed beyond measure, thy sufferings are over.

We would not call thee back from that peaceful shore.

When we've finished our course, and death's drawing nigh,

Who transplanted our dwelling to regions on high,

May he not be prepared to obey the scroll and call,

Nor shrink at the thought of the coffin and pall,
